Since the X-Men are a team-based group, I think I want to make the first part of the webpage be a single scroll, but then (if I can) make a horizontal scroll for each team member that can open up with more information about each member. Under that it can be the same thing with antagonists (both of these lists could go on forever so I'm just going to include the characters I'm familiar with). Below the characters, it can go back to single scroll and talk about the social issues represented in the comics/shows/movies. At the bottom maybe it can just be some comic book covers.
